Future Of Fraternities

An article in the Kentucky Kernel last week, entitled "Future Of Fraternities," pointed out the fact that the Interfraternity Council (I.F.C.) is now in a position to make a decision on whether or not to continue its existence. The I.F.C. is a national organization which is made up of many different fraternities. It is the only organization of its kind in the world. The I.F.C. is now in a position to make a decision on whether or not to continue its existence. The I.F.C. is now in a position to make a decision on whether or not to continue its existence.

Tick-Tock, Tick-Tock

Much has been said concerning the unsynchronized action of the University clock system.

This problem began in 1959 with the start of construction on the Medical Center. As new buildings were erected, the generator which distributed the power to regulate the clocks became too weak to transmit the time signal by which the clocks were synchronized. The generator had been installed in 1955, and was only capable of supplying the buildings which were in existence at the time. The University then installed a new generator, which carried the load efficiently for a year or so, but the erection of Haggin Hall, Blazer Hall, and the Chemistry-Physics Building weakened the power output of the present generator so that it too became ineffective in transmitting the signal.

Another problem is that the clocks in the Finkhouser Building, the Home Economics Building, the Journalism Building, the Engineering Building, the Administration Building, Kastl-

Hall, Pence Hall, McVey Hall, Miller Hall, and Barker Hall all function by means of an underground wiring system. The clocks in the Medical Center, the Chemistry-Physics Building, Haggin Hall, and Blazer Hall operate on a newer direct plug-in method. When work began on the expansion of the Student Union Building, many of these underground cables were severed thereby throwing off many of the clocks which functioned on the old system.

At present, the Maintenance and Operations division is doing all it can to convert the old underground wiring method to the direct plug-in method. An instrument which performs this function known as a "628-Relay" has already been placed in White Hall, Barker Hall, and the Administration Building. Plans are also under way to purchase a booster for the present generator which will evenly distribute the time signal to all buildings. Until this comes about, we must be patient and hope for the best.

Lane Explains Position

To The Editor:

I should like to let the student body know that Student Congress did not, contrary to a series of articles by the Kernel, defeat in any fashion, manner, or form, integration here at the University.

A letter was read by a representative of the Interaid council to the Congress assembly. The letter was a simple recommendation to different establishments on campus, proposing a policy of integration. The last sentence of the letter read, "We would like to make it clear that the great majority of our members are definitely willing to patronize your restaurant if you should choose to follow this recommendation."

Student Congress felt that this sentence gave the impression that if the establishments did not integrate, then Student Congress was endorsing a policy of not patronizing that establishment.

It was made clear to the Interaid Council representative that if the letter was rewritten, the assembly would be willing to vote again on the proposal.

But it should be made clear once again that Student Congress did not vote on any motion for or against integration.

I should hope that the Kernel staff will continue its high degree of journalism and strive not to report erroneous facts.

Mississippian View

To The Editor:

In today's editorial entitled "A Final Breakthrough," in which you stated some of our views concerning the problem of Mississippians against Negroes, you seemed to demonstrate a remarkable prejudice of your own — against Mississippians. Wouldn't it have been a fairer thing to say "The white supremacy which some Mississippians value so highly" and "Apparently, some Mississippians believe that if you ignore them (Negroes) and refuse to associate with them, they'll go away?"

Mississippians can no more be lumped together as all "nigger-haters" than all Kentuckians can be called "gun-totin' hillbillies." There are some, a great many of us in fact, who love our fellow man.

Mrs. Doris Wren
Graduate Student from Crystal Springs, Miss.

P.S. I'm saving today's paper, hoping against hope I can feed those words about the prospects of State's team to you at a later date!

Personal Invitation

To The Editor:

I have two reasons for writing this letter. First I want this letter to serve as a personal invitation to the 27 Negro students who signed the letter in Tuesday's Kernel. I would like for you, and any of your student friends, to accept my personal invitation to attend Monday night's meeting of the Student Congress. I would welcome the opportunity to meet with you in the entrance lobby of the Law Building at 6:45 p.m. on Monday, the 18th of March, or at any other time that might be convenient with you, if any purpose ought in your minds be served by such a meeting.

Secondly, several misadventures have been made this week in an attempt to "whitewash" the action of Student Congress. The problem that faced, and does face, the Congress is not a question of semantics, but is rather the question, "Is Student Congress willing to go forward as forming the desegregation of local restaurants?"

The Congress must make its position clear on this issue.

UK Band To Give Concert

The University of Kentucky Symphonic Band will present a concert in Memorial Hall, Sunday, March 17, at 3:30 p.m.

The program will feature original band compositions by British and American composers of the twentieth century.

Two of the major works to be performed are the "First Suite in E flat" by Gustav Holst and the "Symphonic Suite" by Clifton Williams. The suite by Holst, composed in 1909, has earned a place as one of the important original works for the modern concert band. The "Symphonic Suite" by Clifton Williams was chosen to receive the Ostwald Award by the American Bandmasters Association in 1957. This brilliant composition has had many performances and is a striking example of the contemporary music for band.

The "Chorale Preludes" by William Latham are based on familiar chorale melodies and are written in the early 18th century style.

The "Symphony in C Minor" by Ernest Williams, probably the first written for band by an American composer, was completed in 1938 and received its first public performance in New York in May of that year. Although the composer has indicated that the work should not be classified as program music, the composition was prompted by ideas which center around the heroic life of Joan of Arc.

The concert will be conducted by Bernard Fitzgerald, head of the music department and Philip Miller, director of the marching band and is open to the public without charge.

The complete program is as follows:

- Overture, Elkhart 1960
- Robert Washburn
- Three Chorale Preludes
- William Latham
- Symphony in C Minor
- Ernest Williams
- First Suite in E Flat
- Gustav Holst
- Intermezzo from the opera,
- Vanessa Samuel Barber
- Symphonic Suite

Archaeologist Gives Lecture On Greece

Dr. John Young, Vicker professor of archaeology at John Hopkins University, lectured on "The Antiquities of Sumium (a part of Greece)" Tuesday night in the Student Union Building.

On a week tour to seven universities, Dr. Young, sponsored by the Kentucky Chapter of the Archaeology Institute of America, gave an economic picture of Ancient Greek industry and commerce of Attica, near Athens, which he has studied for many years and helped to excavate parts of this region.

His lecture was illustrated with slides showing his discoveries.

The ancient ways of separating silver and lead are one of the discoveries he made. He has also uncovered farms with barns which resembled silos. He proved they were barns, not silos.

Dr. Young has had several articles published in Hesperia, an archaeological magazine.

Seneca, Maysville Win In Tourney Openers; Unseld, Murphy Star

Seneca's rambling Redskins romped to a 70-56 victory over Allen County's Patriots behind a 32 point outburst from center Wesley Unseld in the second game Wednesday night.

Maysville staged a second half comeback to take Clay County 65-55 in the opening contest.

Seneca tomahawked Allen County's young squad with a tremendous second half. All-state Mike Redd added 20 to the Redskins' totals. Unseld and Redd accounted for 52 points, taking only four shots of the entire Allen squad.

In the evening's first contest, Maysville jumped to an early 12-4 lead which they expanded to a 22-13 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Maysville's small but speedy Bulldogs saw the lead cut to 37-32 at half time.

Clay's tall Tigers fired in 23 points in the wild third quarter to grab a 55-48 third quarter lead.

Clay's first lead came with 2:52 left in the third stanza at 47-46. At 1:24, two Maysville timeouts later, Clay led 53-46.

Clay built the lead to 13 at the start of the final quarter, but Maysville's pesky all-court press began to tell on the Tigers.

Clay still led, 65-56, when center Pearl Hicks fouled out with 3:16 left in the game. Maysville went to work for real when Hicks fouled out. Hicks led all scorers with 31 points.

Guard Dwight Murphy and center Bobby Hiles led the Bulldog charge. Murphy pulled Maysville within three points before fouling out with just under a minute to go.

Hiles was able to get the Bulls back into the game. He scored 11 points in the second half. He also had four rebounds and three assists.

A reprieve was waiting, though, and Hicks rushed both shots on a one-and-one bonus with only 5 seconds left to give the Bulldogs the 66-55 victory and the right to meet Seneca.

Clay County's Halton County team, which lost to Maysville 65-55, will meet Seneca in the second round.

Maysville's M. Redd, who had 15 points, three rebounds and 15 blocks, was named MVP. Bobby Hiles, who had 13 points, was named Most Valuable Player.

Allen County received another dose of Louisville basketball in the second contest.

Last year unbeaten Allen lost to eventual state champ St. Xavier in the quarter final. This year Allen faced favored Seneca, and lost 70-56.

Allen's rebuilt Patriots, who lost all five starters from last season, were able to keep up with the talented Redskins for just under a half. Then the roof fell in.

Unseld took charge for Seneca from the start. The 225-pound junior scored the Redskins' first seven points. He gathered in 20 rebounds to go with the 32 points.

Ken Rigdon's 18 points led Allen scoring. Norman Weaver finished with 16.

Seneca, Owensboro Picked By Students

Six students interviewed yesterday picked Louisville, Seneca and Owensboro as their favorites to win the Kentucky State High School Basketball Tournament.

Tommy Dyer, a senior from Harrison, picked Seneca to beat Owensboro in the state game. He said, "Owensboro is the best in the state, but Seneca has a better chance to win because they have a better team."

John Ed Goins, a senior from Middlesboro, picked Owensboro to beat Seneca. He said, "Owensboro has a better chance to win because they have a better team."

Lawrence Bailey, a senior from Shelby County in the eighth region, picks Seneca because they have too many big boys.

John Ed Goins, a senior from Middlesboro in the thirteenth region, adds his vote for Seneca to take the state. He said, "They've played a tough schedule and will have the advantage of being the home team."

Kidie Whittier, a senior from Middlesboro, picked Owensboro to beat Seneca. He said, "Owensboro has a better chance to win because they have a better team."

For the first time, a team from Middlesboro has been picked to win the state championship.

Notre Dame's head football coach, Joe Karasich, resigned to take an administrative job with the National Football League.

Karasich, who had 17 wins against 23 losses in four seasons at the Catholic college, reportedly had his job in jeopardy for the past two years.

Hugh Devore, the freshman coach last year, was named as "interim coach for the 1963 season." It was the second time that Devore has been an interim coach at Notre Dame. He was named to the same position in 1955 when Lamar L. Len resigned and before the appointment of Frank Leahy.

Pat Boyle, NFL commissioner, said Karasich would replace Mike Wilson, who is retiring at the age of 60, as supervisor of referees and would have other administrative duties.

A report had it that all members of the football coaching staff would be invited to remain in their present capacities.

Oldham Beats Hancock; Catholic, Dunbar Win

By RICHARD STEVENSON and WALLY PAGAN
Kernel Daily Sports Editors

Hancock County's Hornets couldn't quite contend with the Oldham County Colonels' man to man defense and fell to the Colonels, 69-55. In the second game of yesterday's morning session, Newport Catholic used a balanced scoring attack along with a dogging man to man defense to defeat Somerset, 68-53.

In the opening round game the Hornets from Hancock couldn't keep pace with the Colonels. Oldham put up a full court press early in the game to shake the ball from the Hornets' hands. The Hornets were unable to score on several occasions from Hancock's full court press.

Bob Jenkins rushed through a 20-foot jump shot to put Oldham ahead, 2-0. The Colonels were unable to get the ball from Jenkins. From that point on the Hornets scored 8-0 before Hancock pushed through a field goal.

Jenkins scored the net's with 31 points to lead Oldham and Bill McFarland 19. Dennis Spader scored 20 for Hancock.

The Colonels jumped out to a 20-12 lead in the first quarter, but Hancock made a gallant comeback to tie the score at 31-31 at intermission.

Catholic scored 17 points in the second quarter to tie the Hornets' lead and increased their lead over Hancock to 48-37 at the end of the second quarter.

Jenkins then clinched a scoring game by paced a fourth quarter 14-10. Oldham. The Colonels scored 21 points in Hancock's third quarter to lead 69-55 at the end of the game.

Catholic clinched the game with a 21 point performance. He was followed by Jim Sanders with 13, Carl Foster with 12, and Mike Richmann with 10.

Newport Catholic also managed to hold down Somerset's big gun, Kenny Gibbs.

The 6-6 center, who had been averaging better than 20 points per game, was held to a mere 12 points by the scrappy Thoroughbreds.

Catholic used a man to man defense with men switching off to double team Somerset, causing the Hornets to make many floor errors.

Kentucky's Adolph Rupp, who was in the stands for the game, was very impressed with the Thoroughbreds' tight defense. He said in a half-time interview that Newport Catholic had a "very excellent defense." He also added that it is through this type of coaching that good college players are made.

Catholic's win enables them to meet Oldham County in the quarter finals today at 3:45 p.m.

Lexington Dunbar's Bearcats made their fourth state tourney and the team was Smith with 13, Wilson with 15, and Richard Green with 11. James Berry and Robert Williams scored in the second quarter. Dunbar was led by Pete Thompson who scored 17 points. The team scored 14 points in the third quarter. Dunbar's next appearance will come tonight at 7:30 when the Bearcats take on Taylor County, who advanced with a win over Breckinridge Training, 57-43.

Taylor County, making its first trip to the state meet, showed no signs of nervousness. The team's lineup included the rookies Allstate forward, Cleve Hickman, and the veterans with 10 wins, Pete Thompson and John P. Smith. The team's record is 17-10. The team's record is 17-10.

after a successful one. S. T. Poach's men rolled over an outmanned Paducah Tiltman quintet, 63-45.

The Tiltman men made a last effort to tie the game by only seven points, but the final point was theirs. The Bearcats' record is 17-10.

Tiltman attempted a slow-down game in the first quarter but couldn't get the lead. Dunbar moved ahead on the tip and at the first stop was leading by 12-5.

With James Smith leading the way the Bearcats continued to pull away on top at halftime, 10-30-20.

But Tiltman wanted to win the game for their coach, O. Dunbar, who is nothing short of a legend. The Tiltman men scored to cut the points off the Bearcats' run, 41-34 at the end of the third quarter.

The outcome was still in doubt but Smith and George Wilson once again put the Bearcats out of reach this time for good.

Need A Transcript? Little Hope Seen

By JOHN RYAN
Kernel Feature Writer

There was once a student at the University named Ignatz J. Something-or-other, affectionately known to his roommates and fellow beings as "Big Iggy." He was easy-going, jovial, well liked, and average.

This was before the transcript situation arose. At a certain time in Big Iggy's life, he attempted to come up with a transcript, but to no avail. The transcript was not there, and Big Iggy was in a bit of a predicament.

Complicated thing — transcript. Big Iggy knew it was a bit of a problem, but he didn't know what to do. A transcript was needed, but it wasn't there. He was in a bit of a predicament.

One day, Big Iggy was in the library, and he was looking for a transcript. He was looking for a transcript, but it wasn't there. He was in a bit of a predicament.

She said, "Mr. I help you?" "Mr. I help you?" he replied. "But yes, he would like a transcript of his grades, and then have her name. She murmured something like 'oh, no, not another one!' and went briskly back to a huge file and pulled the top drawer out. He thumbed through it, closed it, and went through the next two drawers in like manner. In about the middle of the bottom drawer she was on her hands and knees she turned and asked: 'What did you say your name was?'

Ignatz told her his name again. There came a green like unto that of a hot, which he felt, and he started laughing all over again. Finally, picking a paper from under three drawers, he went over to another cabinet, and they had a conference. It was not a very long one, but it was a conference.

After they came out of the building, taking both came back to Iggy, and all there was to the transcript. He went back to his room, and there was a transcript. He went back to his room, and there was a transcript. He went back to his room, and there was a transcript.

But Iggy, having lost at the time, out of the building, and into the office of the dean of his college.

He hurriedly told his story to another doll, who was packing up her gear to go to lunch. After hearing him out, she suggested that he had come to the wrong place if he wanted a transcript. He should go to the Admissions Office for such thing.

Big Iggy requested that perhaps it should be over there first, things would be speeded up. She said that, and afterwards told him that everything was now in order. Back to the Administration building he went to where he had started.

But the story does not end here. Living Doll was waiting for our Ignatz, and he greeted him with: "Your transcript will be ready in three weeks."

"Three weeks?" yelled Big Iggy, louder than his stomach was growling. "But I need it today!"

She said that, and afterwards told him that everything was now in order. Back to the Administration building he went to where he had started.

In about the middle of the bottom drawer she was on her hands and knees she turned and asked: 'What did you say your name was?'

Ignatz told her his name again. There came a green like unto that of a hot, which he felt, and he started laughing all over again. Finally, picking a paper from under three drawers, he went over to another cabinet, and they had a conference. It was not a very long one, but it was a conference.

After they came out of the building, taking both came back to Iggy, and all there was to the transcript. He went back to his room, and there was a transcript. He went back to his room, and there was a transcript. He went back to his room, and there was a transcript.

But Iggy, having lost at the time, out of the building, and into the office of the dean of his college.

He hurriedly told his story to another doll, who was packing up her gear to go to lunch. After hearing him out, she suggested that he had come to the wrong place if he wanted a transcript. He should go to the Admissions Office for such thing.

Big Iggy requested that perhaps it should be over there first, things would be speeded up. She said that, and afterwards told him that everything was now in order. Back to the Administration building he went to where he had started.

But the story does not end here. Living Doll was waiting for our Ignatz, and he greeted him with: "Your transcript will be ready in three weeks."

"Three weeks?" yelled Big Iggy, louder than his stomach was growling. "But I need it today!"

She said that, and afterwards told him that everything was now in order. Back to the Administration building he went to where he had started.

"Tareyton's Dual Filter in duas partes divisa est!"

says Lucius (Poppa) Marius, he-man historian and author of Inside Caesar. "Homo sapiens today sure appreciates fine flavor," quoth Poppa. "Nota bene the popularity of Dual Filter Tareyton. Reason: flavor—de gustibus you know, the right you'd get from any filter cigarette."
